PARAGUAY CARBON FORUM

Paraguay is today positioned as one of the countries with the greatest leadership potential in the climate and sustainability agenda in Latin America. Its economic model, based on agricultural production, clean energy and macroeconomic stability, places it in a unique position to drive low-emission, climate-resilient development.

With more than 90% of its electricity coming from renewable sources -thanks to the hydroelectric power of Itaipu and Yacyretá-, Paraguay is one of the countries with the lowest energy carbon footprint in the world.

In the new context of carbon markets and international cooperation under Article 6 of the Paris Agreement, Paraguay is emerging as a strategic regional hub for the development, certification and trade of high-quality carbon credits. Its macroeconomic stability, legal certainty and abundance of natural resources make it an attractive destination for climate investment and large-scale mitigation projects.

At the regional level, Paraguay today represents a history of transition and opportunity: a country with the capacity to capture climate investments, lead carbon-integrated projects for sustainable development and offer the world carbon credits with traceability, integrity and social benefit. This position projects you not only as a recipient of climate finance, but also as a regional provider of high-quality climate solutions.

The Paraguay Carbon Forum aims to position the country as a regional center for climate investment and development of high-integrity carbon projects, highlighting its legal framework, economic stability and potential in sectors such as forests, agriculture, energy and waste.

CARBON FORUMS

The Carbon Forum events are part of a regional initiative aimed at strengthening carbon markets in Latin America, with editions in Argentina, Chile, Mexico, Colombia and now in Paraguay.

The goal of the Paraguay Carbon Forum 2026 is to mobilize local market actors to strengthen climate action and promote the development of a solid and transparent carbon market. To achieve this vision, organizations of all sectors and sizes play a crucial role and can benefit from carbon markets, the most efficient and scalable mechanism for combating climate change and financing new sustainable projects.

Our organizing team brings together some of the leading market makers in Latin America, with a proven track record in promoting carbon policies and mechanisms. We are committed to developing innovative products and effective strategies that drive the expansion of carbon markets, creating opportunities for all actors in the climate ecosystem.

By becoming a sponsor of the Paraguay Carbon Forum 2026, your organization will be part of a regional and global movement around carbon markets, directly contributing to the discussions that are defining the future of the most relevant financial tool for addressing the climate crisis.
